

Reading Daily

Read today for 30 minutes and fill in your planner. When you have completed a book, then complete the quiz. You can access AR Reader and quizzes online whilst at home. Choose another book within your range using AR Bookfinder to check the level. Record in your diary how much you have read. Email me and tell me when you finish a book and what you thought of it.

Please make sure that you are taking a quiz when you finish your book. Get Reading and Get Testing! If anyone is short of books to read, please email me on:

Spellings

This week think of ten words that you often spell incorrectly in your writing and practise them. Choose words that you use regularly and make the same mistake with. Try to think of a mnemonic or another way of remembering the word. Can you remember lots of you kept writing believe rather than believe?

Times Tables

This week enjoy practising what you have learned on TTRS.

English

This is your last week at Highfields.

Today, I would like you to write a poem about your time at Highfields.

You could write an acrostic poem where you start each line with the letters that spell out Highfields.

You could start each line with Highfields- for instance:

Highfields is
Highfields makes me feel
Highfields made me
Highfields helped me
Etc

You can choose how you write it- it would be great to read your poems.

Science - Lives in Danger

We have explored many life cycles of animals over the last few weeks and perhaps the ones we have looked at are not in danger. But there are many animals which are.

Look through the power point at the work which Jane Goodall is doing to protect the lives of Chimpanzees. There are many things that she is trying to do to raise awareness of their plight.

This week you can either complete an advertising poster raising awareness of how endangered chimps are (using the planning sheet and ideas sheet provided) or you can choose to do your own endangered animal, find out about someone who is supporting them and trying to raise awareness about it then complete your own poster or advert.

I would love to see what animal you choose.
